we are afraid.
our educational system tells us that we can all be big-ass winners.
it hasn't told us
about the gutters
or the suicides.
or the terror of one person aching in one place
alone
untouched
unspoken to watering a plant.

“The Laughing Heart your life is your life don't let it be clubbed into dank submission. be on the watch. there are ways out. there is a light somewhere. it may not be much light but it beats the darkness. be on the watch. the gods will offer you chances. know them. take them. you can't beat death but you can beat death in life, sometimes.
and the more often you learn to do it, the more light there will be. your life is your life. know it while you have it.
you are marvelous the gods wait to delight in you.”

seeing things. I started seeing things. coffee cups aligned against a counter in a coffee shop. I was living a hell in small rooms, I broke things, crushed the glass, crossed the glass, cursed. So you left. Algebra Angrou me, 3 me covered up, Charlie Chaplin was a fake and the flowers were for the pansies. I don't know when, date, time, all this. I challenged everything, I was being continually evicted, trapped, in and out of fights, in and out of my mind. I no longer had to prove that I was a man. I didn't have to prove anything. The knife came near my throat again, I almost turned on the gas again, but when the good times came again, I did not fight like an alley adversary, I let them take me, I luxuriate them. I give them Welcome home, I even looked in the mirror once having thought to me ugly, now liked what I saw. I could never accept life as it was. or a dog walking along a lime. He must do what he must do, he has a wife, a house, children, expenses, probably a girlfriend. For me this poem is a 3 story about growing up, as 3 not 3, in our young days, confused, we ask for validation, but angry and sick of everything. The man I fought in alleys had stone p. I love how the boy's gorgeous film has given a closure to his color scene said with a poem rather than a soundtrack like most movies. Everyone was poking, advancing, cheating for some insignificant advantage, the lie The gun and the plot was empty, the darkness was the dictator. This is a shield, a disease. Women were something to screw and railing, I had no male friends, I changed jobs jobs cities, I hated holidays, babies, history, newspapers, museums, grandmothers, marriage, movies, spiders, garbagemen, english accents,spain, france,italy,walnuts and the color orange. we begin to find beauty in ourselves, it still kinda messy and we love it as it is. I changed jobs and cities, I hated holidays, babies, history, newspapers, museums, grandmothers, marriage, movies, spiders, garbagemen, English accents, Spain, France, Italy, walnuts, and the color orange. Maybe the other life had worn me down, I no longer found glamour in topping somebody in conversation or in mounting the body of some poor, drunken female whose life had slipped away into sorrow. but as I went on with my alley fights, my suicidal years, my passage through any number of women-it gradually began to occur to me that I wasn't different from the others, I was the same, they were all fulsome with hatred, glossed over with petty grievances, the men I fought in alleys had hearts of stone. Hee's caught. The whole world is at the throat of the world, everybody feels angry ,short-changed, cheated. Peace and happiness were to me sign of inferiority. They were all fulsome with hatred, glossed over with petty grievances . peace and happiness to me were signs of inferiority, tenants of the weak and addled mind. Maybe our life is not the exact same like how Charles Bukowski narrated the lowest and the highest point of a man's life, maybe our life is just an average day for years and it's okay, totally okay, my point is I hope we embrace every moment in our life as it is the part of our journey, cry it, laugh at it, curse it, but never deny it. But as I went on with Amy alley fights, my suicidal years.À my passage through any number of women, it gradually begun to occur to me that I wasn't different from the others. I was the same, the less I needed the better I felt. and then we grow up, we don't know the exact time but that part already us, us, we are no longer full of anger, we enjoy the sunshine, we find beautiful in every little thing, we embrace the peace and happiness inside us, we even embrace the worst days of our life. I began to feel good, I began to feel good in worst situations and there were plenty of those, like say, the boss behind his desk, he is going to have to fire me, I've missed too many days, he's dressed in a suit, necktie, glasses, he says "I'm going to have to let you go, it's alright" I tell him. But there were parts, tenuous magic parts open for the asking. I had no male friends. published on 2019-01-11T16:08:16Z Either peace or happiness, let it unfold you when I was a young man I felt these things were dumb, unsophisticated. Everybody was nudging, inching, cheating from some insignificant advantage. almost handsome, yet a bit ripped and ragged, scars, lumps, odd turns, but all in all, not too bad, almost handsome. Everybody is despondent, disillusioned. I re formulated I don't know when, date, time, all that but the change occurred. Algebra angered me, opera sickened me, Charlie Chaplin was a fake and flowers were for pansies, I think that's the most magical part of this Charles Bukowski's masterpiece. Done get me wrong, there is such a thing as cockeyed optimism that overlook all basic problems just for the sake itself. I could never gobble down all its poisons.
